

HAWAII INFORMER

“Fridays at Coconut” Delivers Local Island Style

<http://hawaii.informermg.com/2016/07/03/fridays-at-coconut-delivers-local-island-style/>

Hawaii Informer says:

Coconut Waikiki Hotel debuts “Fridays at the Coconut” every Friday this summer from 4-7 p.m. at 450 Lewers Street. Designed to engage both guests and locals and in keeping with the colorful hotel’s true island style, Fridays at the Coconut features a Hawaiian plate for $9 (with lots of food options), local entertainment and traditional Hawaiian activities such as lei making and crafting.

Coconut Waikiki Hotel presents brand-new and family-friendly Fridays at Coconut event, which is open to guests and locals alike. Every Friday, attendees can dance the night away with entertainment by seasoned Hawaiian artist Sonny Kapu and engage in cultural Hawaiian activities such as lei making as well as traditional Hawaiian lomilomi massage. Enjoy the infamous Hawaiian luau plate by Meesh’s Kitchen, one of the only local family-owned and operated Hawaiian food venue in Waikiki. The Hawaiian food menu includes Lau Lau Pig, Chicken Long Rice, Lomi Salmon, Beef Stew, Smoke Guava Chicken, Pineapple Coleslaw and Potato Salad—all island local favorites. The 81-room colorful and intimate boutique hotel, managed by Filament Hospitality, is currently undergoing a Hawaiian theme refresh by award-winning SF-based designer Anthony Laurino, which will unveil this August. For more details, see www.coconutwaikikihotel.com

